

Show Your Citizenship!
VOTE
Primary Election August 31st.
 ESTABLISHED 1859

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1926

Golden State

News of Interest to All

The city of Los Angeles was worth $4,734,309.06 on July 1, according to report submitted to the mayor.

Work on the seven-story Hart building in Marysville, which is to be the city's "skyscraper," has been started.

The cotton growers of the Corcoran section have perfected the organization of a unit of the California State Cotton Growers' Association.

The board of directors of the Merced County Fair at Merced, placed its stamp of approval on elaborate arrangements for entertainment at the exhibition to be held late in August.

June building permits in Long Beach show a marked improvement for the total for May, 1926 being $100,750 compared to $411,645, a gain of $292,750 for the thirty-day period.

Staging a counter attack, friends of the junior high school at Modesto presented a petition to the Modesto city board asking the board to continue the junior high school next year.

The Hearst Cannery at Oroville, formerly the Virden Packing company's plant, began operations recently. The plant will work entirely with women and women will be employed.

Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the division of animal industry, California department of agriculture, was elected vice-president of the California Veterinary Medical association at the meeting of the association in Los Angeles.

With the awarding of contracts for construction of the one-story Riverside Grammar school, announcement was made by the school officials that work on the structure will be started immediately and rushed to completion.

With the completion of the new municipal storage reservoir, at Onondaga, which is hoped to have ready for use by the latter part of August the danger of a water shortage will be entirely eliminated for that section.

Fifty-eight students were disqualified for readmission to Stanford University because of scholarship deficiencies in the quarter. Of these, 18 were first year students. Fifty-nine other freshmen were placed on probation.

The 1927 state legislature will be this line called upon by California farmers and shippers to pass a bill amending, codifying and improving the fruit and vegetable standardization act, it was announced by agricultural leaders in Sacramento.

The Ventura County Ice and Milk company, which has a creamery at Oxnard, has signed a contract with agents of the Federal government for supplying about two and a half tons of milk a day to the Soldiers' Home at Sattelle.

Farm Adviser V. F. Blanchard of Ventura county announces the appointment of Sydney A. Anderson of Los Angeles as his assistant in extension service and farm bureau work.

Anderson has been the past two years been secretary of the Los Angeles county farm bureau.

Speaking to the point of successful farm accounting, Farm Adviser C. M. Conner of fracture county has just pointed out that the work of his unit at Visalia, has been most successful during the past year and added interest indicates that it may well be pressed again during the coming fiscal period, which will be done.

A flock of young ducks of pure wild Mallard strain, paddling around constantly in their domestic quarters on Dillwood ranch, at Milto, Tulare county, adds another chapter, this season, to the unique and interesting history of the wild duck as he adapts himself to an environment foreign to his natural setting and instincts.

Sequoia National Park, first national playground to be created in California, is to be greatly enlarged and will be known as Roosevelt Sequoia National Park. Virtual assurance of the two changes was given when the United States senate, without opposition, passed a bill so providing, according to dispatches from Washington.

Taken by themselves, the 65,944 arrests for motor vehicle law violations in California during the last year constitute an alarming figure. But statistics on auto mileage, compiled by the State Motor Vehicle department for the same period, disclose that there were approximately 170,500 miles of motor travel in the state for every arrest.

Fertilizer shipments and orders have been heavier this summer in Tulare county than experienced in a number of years, it is reported by men interested in the trucking business or in the sale of commercial fertilizer material. The fertilizer is moving in great shipments and truck loads into the orange groves to the foothills on the eastern slopes of the Sierras where it will be spread about later in the fall after the hot weather has ended.

The average cow is very conservative in the way of outer adornment—a bell around her neck, perhaps, but nothing more. She wears all the adornments known to modern flapperdom, however, on the inside. That doesn't sound possible, but you can ask Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the state division of animal industry. If you don't believe it. Postmortem examinations of the most conservative cow during the last year, says Dr. Iverson, have revealed rings, bracelets, beads, coins and hairpins. And it is found that some cows even dine on nails.

In this day of modern motive methods, when the smell of gasoline pervades all California, it is unusual to see a giant combined harvester of the older type, using a 28-horse team as propelling power. The big harvester on the R. P. Stewart grain ranch at Beaumont, Riverside county, is thought to be the only one south of Tehachapi still using horses for motive power. The only available driver in Beaumont is Tony Baca, 19-year-old boy who handles the twenty-eight horses with reins to the lead pair, from his high perch projecting well over the team from the harvester. The harvester uses a crew of five men, and cuts, threshes and sacks the grain at the rate of about sixty acres in a nine-hour day, resulting in close to 700 sacks of grain per day.

Wanted! Fifty first class eagles to donate feathers to clothe the Yosemite Indian tribe. The Yosemite red men have worn out the feathered finery of their forefathers and are now looking for more eagles. They relate their troubles to Chief Ranger F. S. Townsley, who is expected to bring home the "feathery bacon." Townsley thinks the task a difficult one, so he's asking for help. "Used to be eagles everywhere," said Chief Ung-wah-too-tah, head of the tribe in addressing his appeal to Townsley. "Now plenty white people." "No eagles," no eagles, no real Indian clothes quick—get 'em ready for tribal dance last two days July."

An expenditure of $3,000,000 must be made from the funds of the California treasury during the next two years as the state government's contribution toward the well being of dependent children. Outlining the little known work of the state and county governments in caring for thousands of waifs made public charges by one of circumstances, Mrs. Amy Steinhart Braden, head of the state children's aid bureau and secretary of the state department of public welfare, set this sum as a positive requirement of the coming biennium in helping to maintain the orphans of California, the abandoned children and the children of incapacitated parents.

Lantern in hand, Joe Rodriguez, white road rancher, near San Jose, undertook to fill the gas tank of his tractor from a 100-gallon drum. He ran for a sack to smother the blaze he saw envelop the lantern, and got away just in time to see the top of the gasoline drum rise a hundred feet in the air with a terrific explosion.

A moment later a second drum of gasoline shot its bolt, and shortly afterward Rodriguez and his partner, Cintas, were checking up losses of building, equipment and stock, which ran well over $10,000.

An unusual apple pest has been reported on the J. R. Talbot ranch at Graton, Sonoma county. The apples on the trees appear to be bruised and on being cut open are found to contain dry rot near the surface. The apples have been sun scalded, combined with climatic condition, combined with probable damage from insects or cultivator to the roots of the apple tree, according to County Horticultural Commissioner O. R. Bremner.

"The idea held by most people that the poison methods used by the federal and state departments of agriculture in the control of predatory animals is cleaning out the fur bearers is wrong," says R. K. Stewart, of the U. S. Biological Survey. "There is a greater mortality among fur bearers in trapping than in poisoning. When small fur bearers get in the coyote traps, they are injured so badly that it becomes necessary usually to kill them."

Peculiar Tree Formation
The name "bottle-tree" is applied to trees having trunks resembling bottles. The Australian bottle-tree is the most common. It has a short bottle-like trunk and dense foliage. Natives utilize the tree by making nets of the fibers and by using the sap in the stem as a drink.

Elephants Have Colds
Circus elephants often suffer from colds and the method of treating them is more or less difficult. However, one remedy that seems helpful at least is to make the elephant inhale boiling vinegar, which is done by half filling a bag with vinegar and hanging it over the elephant's trunk so that it has to inhale the fumes whether it wants to or not. The fumes are held to be quite beneficial.

"A Reading From Homer"
In Lourens Alma-Tadema's painting a professional Greek reader and interpreter looks up from his scroll. A hunter lies on the floor. At the extreme left stands a traveler. The man with the harp is Phaedon. The beautiful woman is Sappho. The legend concerning the latter two has been incorporated in the painting.

Contagious in That Sense
"Now, sir," said the professor of medicine, "tell me to what class of maladies Insomniak belongs?" "Why," replied the medical student, "it's a contagious disease." "I never heard it so described. Where did you learn of this?" "From experience. Whenever my neighbor's dog can't sleep, I'm just as wakeful as he is."

Cartoonist's Ideas
The tiger as the symbol of Tammany Hall, the elephant of the Republican party and the donkey which Republican papers use as emblematic of Democrats are the invention of Thomas Nast. Originally the donkey, which came first, was not applied to the Democratic party.

Music From Belfries
St. Rombold's Singing tower at Maat, in Belgium, has forty-five bells; the belfry at Bruges has forty; and a similar number sound from Antwerp's cathedral spire. In the belfry at Mons are forty-four bells, and from the belfry at Ghent fifty-two bells still ring.

"Blue" Songs Before Jazz
"Blue" songs had a vogue in the southern central states many years ago before jazz was known. The nature of the song is all that the name implies and is in the same category as the "spiritual" and the "jubilee" heard so frequently through the South.

Artistry in Well Doing
A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly—or at least to the best of one's ability—everything he attempts to do. It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art. The smallest thing well done becomes artistic.—William Matthews

Cedar Dust Kills Odors
Nothing is more offensive than a lingering odor of the previous meal. Sometimes it takes a long period of airing to clear a house of such odors. A little cedar dust, sprinkled on the hot stove, will dispel stale cooking odors as it burns.—Griff.

Old European Race
The origin of the Basques is unsettled. The name is applied to a peculiar race, dwelling on the slopes of the Pyrenees. They occupy the provinces of Biscay, Alava, Guipuzcoa and Navarre in Spain, and two French departments, Bayonne and Mauleon.

Argumentative Force
Colonel Bailey says, in the Houston Post, that "the oldtime mother was more powerful in argument than the twentieth-century article, due to her habit of having a slipper or a paddle in her hand when she gesticulated."

Body's Ingredients
The chief ingredients of the human body turn to gases—water, vapor and carbon dioxide. The others, calcium, phosphorus, etc., turn into solids which become a part of the soil. The body changes not to gas alone, but to gas and dust.

Iron Stains
Rust stains may be removed by covering the stain with salt after wetting in boiling water. Then lay in hot sunshine over bright tin, and squeeze on juice of lemon or tomato. Rinse in hot water and repeat if necessary.

Has Liberal Definition
The definition of "contraband" is, with respect to time of war, "anything which will give aid, comfort or assistance to the enemy." The United States congress has during wars of the United States defined what shall constitute contraband articles.

Allotted Territory
A "sphere of influence" may be described as an area wherein other powers undertake not to attempt to acquire influence or territory by treaty or annexation. Such British spheres exist in the Persian gulf and in Arabia.

Brothers Left a Name
The word cant, hypocritical talk, is derived from two bigoted Covenanters, Alexander and Andrew Cant, who persecuted their opponents without mercy and at the same time prayed for victims of religious persecution.

Almost Forgotten Poet
Sordello, a Provencal troubadour, who lived from 1180 to 1255, owes his reputation chiefly to Dante, who mentions him eight times in his "Purgatorio." Nothing survives of his prose and only a few poems.

Founder of Georgia
James Edward Oglethorpe, who projected the colony of Georgia and conducted the expedition for its settlement in 1733, remained in America only ten years, returning to England in 1743. He died in 1785.

Always Lovers of Horses
When Julius Caesar made his incursions into England or the land of the Britons in the years 55 and 54 B. C., he made note of the size and strength of the horses possessed by the Britons.

No Intent to Restore Monarchy in Portugal
Lisbon.—The recent revolutionary movement against parliamentarism but is not sympathetic with the idea of a restoration of a monarchy, according to Gen. Manuel Gomes da Costa, present head of the government.

General da Costa, who bore a leading part in the coup d'etat of May 28, When the Cabecadas ministry was set up, and then ousted his fellow revolutionary, Premier Cabecadas, on June 17, unquestionably is the most popular man in Portugal today. Despite his sixty years, he is erect, vigorous, and youthful.

The army, Gen. da Costa said, hopes to obtain the respect which is its due by carrying out useful functions in behalf of the nation instead of "serving as a puppet in the hands of politicians."

"Its only aim is to serve the country by rendering all the services in its power," he continued. "Its immediate ends are to put the house in order, to re-establish hierarchy where chaos reigns, and then to give back the reins of public administration into the hands of the politicians."

The parliament has temporarily ceased its functions and a number of constitutional dispositions are suspended. But we are not copying any dictatorial model, either Spanish or Italian. We intend to govern in our own way. Portuguese government for the Portuguese people."

Sorta Good?
"The greatest woman in history is the wife of a man of moderate means who does her own cooking, washing and ironing, brings up a family of girls and boys to be useful members of society and finds time for her own intellectual and moral improvement."

Our Main Endeavor
In these days we are not so much concerned about loving our neighbors as we are about keeping up with them.—Boston Transcript.

1—Lieut. F. E. Stack who will command the marine detachment at the summer White House in the Adirondacks. 2—Torpedoes filled with booze ready to be shot from Rum Row off New York and picked up by rum runners, but seized by government agents. 3—Dietator Pilsudski of Poland conferring with Minister of Foreign Affairs Zaleski.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Farmer Gets Little Relief From Congress at Least Until Next Session.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

NOT much relief for the American farmer from this session of congress. Out of the multiplicity of plans offered in bills, substitute bills and amendments he gets only the co-operative marketing measure which was President Coolidge's original prescription for the ills that beset agriculture in this country.

Corn-belt senators, having lost in the battle to put over their bill to raise farm product prices on the American market, refused to accept the plan supported by the administration, embodied in the Fess bill, providing for credits for farm co-operative associations. They gained the help of a number of senators who usually stand by the administration, and of all but three of the Democrats. So when the vote was taken the measure went down to defeat, 26 to 54.

One substitute after another was offered and rejected speedily before the senate, with the chamber nearly empty, passed the co-operative marketing bill without a record vote. It previously went through the house but had to go to conference. It creates a new division in the Agriculture department to handle co-operative marketing problems and appropriates $225,000 for its work. Members of congress who are from farming regions do not think it is adequate to solve the problems of the farmers.

Congress planned to adjourn immediately before or after the Fourth of July and the members of the corn belt prepared to go home and begin work that, they said, would make the administration and the Republican party leaders mighty sorry for what they had done and left undone in this matter of farm legislation. The long and bitter controversy is sure to show results at the polls in November, and there is a lot of talk about a corn-belt candidate for the Republican nomination in 1928.

It just happens that Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is in Sweden at this time carefully studying farm methods and advocating a great international farm congress in Chicago in 1933.

One other thing has just been done to help the farmer. At the suggestion of President Coolidge, the shipping board assigned 27 available ships for the grain-carriage trade and ordered 32 additional ships put into condition for use in the same trade to assure freedom of ocean transportation facilities for grain exports. Action by the board came after Secretary Jardine of the Department of Agriculture and Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce had appeared before the board as emissaries of the cabinet members came to the board at the suggestion of the President "to call to the shipping board's attention the acute grain situation and the lack of sufficient ships to transport grain to the markets of the world."

GETTING ready for adjournment on July 3, the house hurried through two important bills. The first was the second deficiency bill carrying $45,000,000 of which $2,680,700 is appropriated for prohibition enforcement.

This item was made but many of the votes were absent and there were only 33 votes in favor of the motion.

Two other motions—one to knock out the $186,700 item requested by the Lincoln C. Andrews, federal dry chief, for financing special federal undercover squads to check up on state officials and another for dry law enforcement—were defeated overwhelmingly.

An appropriation of $550,000 for the administration of the new civil air bill and the construction of airways was approved.

The other big bill passed was that providing for the army's five-year expansion program, already passed by the senate. This was the third of the air-expansion measures, and the nation is now assured of an adequate aviation program in the commercial, naval and military fields. Estimates made by naval and military experts disclose that approximately $250,000,000 will be expended in the development of national defense aviation in the next five years.

SENATOR REED of Missouri and his committee have kept right on with their inquiry into the Pennsylvania Republican primary. Most interesting of the information obtained last week was the fact that Pennsylvania's liquor laws were being enforced largely by unofficial "snoopers" paid from a fund which was collected by the Women's Christian Temperance union and sometimes imported from other states.

W. B. Wright, deputy attorney general of the state, admitted this and also admitted that he himself drew a salary of $8,000 from the W. C. T. U. as director of the prohibition enforcement unit. Wright was imported from Baltimore by Governor Pinchot. Attorney General G. R. Woodruff of Pennsylvania took the stand and defended the employment of the snoopers and the method of their payment.

SENATOR CARAWAY had a characteristic outburst in which he made a lot of violent assertions concerning the Republican senatorial primary in Illinois, attacking both the McKinley and the Smith factions. He charged that both used vast sums of money and that positions of public trust were deluged to procure contributions and influence votes. He said that Samuel Insull, the public utilities magnate, found it cheaper to come across the border than the loss of millions in re-elected rates, and donated at least $500,000 individually or through subsidiaries. And he more than intimated that much money was paid to John H. Walker, president of the state Federation of Labor, and to Frank Farrington, another labor leader, to line up labor votes for Smith. Some of the persons he named refused to comment; others said he had taken advantage of his senatorial immunity to utter a mass of falsehoods. Reed's committee may disclose the truth.

WISCONSIN. Democrats, in convention in Milwaukee, enthusiastically adopted a platform calling for submission of the prohibition question to state constitutional convention, and expressing opposition to the Ku Klux Klan. They selected T. M. Kearney of Racine for their senatorial candidate, and put up a full state ticket headed by Martin L. Lueck of Beaver Dam for governor.

MORE than a score of Methodist Episcopal bishops and many other leaders of that church assembled in international conference in Chicago last week, and one of the first topics they took up was prohibition. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, and others warmly defended Lincoln C. Andrews, federal administrator of prohibition, though Doctor Wilson did blame him for putting men into the prohibition enforcement unit who were not personally committed to prohibition.

DRASTIC measures designed to increase production and decrease imports and waste were put into effect July 1 by the council of ministers of Italy. The country's trade balance has been bad and the lira has been losing value, so the ministers considered the situation acute. The most important of the decrees are as follows:

Authorization for the increase of the working day by one hour. (From eight to nine hours.)

Restriction of daily newspapers to six pages and the prohibition of all special supplements excepting technical ones.

Prohibition of the opening of new bars, cafes, hotels, cabarets, pastry shops and night dancing resorts.

Prohibition of the construction of private houses and villas of a luxurious type. The only new construction permitted is of cheap houses for workers, farm laborers and small-salaried employees, farm houses or co-operative apartments representing the direct investment of small private taxpayers.

Special government aid is given for the building of cheap houses for employees of large industrial establishments.

Announcement that agreements have been reached for the reduction in price, without hurting the quality, of iron, cements, bricks and plaster.

Announcement that steps have been taken to help large employers open canteens in order to sell food to their employees at the lowest possible prices.

Announcement that agreements have been reached with industrialists to help in the production of domestic metals.

There is an interesting rumor afloat—mention of which in print in Italy is officially forbidden—that Mussolini is planning the marriage of his young daughter to the crown prince.

MAINLY because of the scandal over the smuggling of liquor into the United States, the Liberal government of Canada has been forced out of office. Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced to the house that he has asked dissolution of parliament and been refused by the governor general, so he and his cabinet resigned. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservatives, was called on at once to form a new ministry, which he did. His party in parliament is not strong enough to stand alone, however, and will merely attempt to pass the necessary legislation and carry on until the new elections. The new cabinet ministers, except Prime Minister Meighen, are all nominally "ministers without portfolio" in order to avoid the necessity of resigning their seats in parliament, which is compulsory on salaried ministers.

The lower house by a vote of 119 to 109 adopted the Conservative party's amendment to the report of the commission which recently delivered into the customs department and involving the smuggling of liquor into the United States. The vote means that parliament has adopted the recommendations of the customs investigating committee for improved administration of the customs department; that it has approved the censure of G. H. Bolvin, former minister of customs, who was accused of releasing without payment of excise tax a large quantity of denatured alcohol which was used for beverage purposes, most of it going into the United States, and that there shall be a further judicial investigation into the customs administration.

ALL the Mediterranean countries and islands were severely shocked by earthquakes last week, and the tremors were also felt in Asia as far as Sumatra, where scores of persons were killed. The casualty lists in Europe were not great, but many villages were destroyed on the islands of Rhodes and Crete. A few days later, on the anniversary of the earthquake of 1925, that did so much damage in Santa Barbara, that California city experienced another tremor that damaged buildings but caused only one death.

In Transylvania there were great floods that caused the death of about one hundred persons and the collapse of thousands of houses.

NEWS of a big conspiracy to overthrow the Spanish directorate headed by Gen. Primo de Rivera has leaked out in spite of the government to prevent publicity. It was said that more than 200 of the plotters were under arrest and that the secret police were after many others. Reports from Tarragona, Cadiz and other provinces say everything was prepared there for a military uprising when the government agents discovered the conspiracy.

GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS, crown prince of Sweden, has been having a grand time among the "old home folks" and their descendants up in Minnesota. Of course, the whole population joined in welcoming him and the crown prince, but naturally those of Swedish blood were the most enthusiastic.

JEREMIAH SMITH of Boston, who has finished his work of reorganizing the finances of Hungary, has presented his salary of $100,000 for two years' work to the Hungarian people.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(Ed. 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

Three things to delight in—beauty, frankness and well doing. Three things to avoid—idleness, loquacity and flippant jesting. Three things to cultivate—good taste, good manners and good humor.

SEASONABLE DISHES

A tasty salad is always in season and now with fresh green things in abundance one may have a variety of summer salads.

Try slicing small green onions very thin, adding half of a green pepper, more or less as one likes the flavor, cover with sour cream, adding a bit of salt and cayenne. A spoonful of mayonnaise may be added to season more highly if desired. Serve on lettuce. Cottage cheese served on lettuce with a spoonful of crushed fresh currants, sweetened very sweet, is another well-liked combination. When the fruit is not in season open a can that has been crushed with sugar and canned without cooking.

Combination Salad.—Shred a small head of early cabbage and cover with cold water to crisp. Arrange tender leaves of lettuce on salad plates and heap on the following combination: well mixed green peas, one-half of a green pepper finely shredded, one banana sliced and chopped fine; add the cabbage; a bit of pineapple will not spoil the combination.

Strawberry Whip.—Mix one cupful of crushed strawberries with one-third of a cupful of powdered sugar. Beat the whites of three eggs, add one-third of a cupful of sugar and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, beat again. Combine the mixture and serve in sherbet cups or as a sauce on sponge cake.

Baked Beans With Sausage.—Parboil one quart of navy beans after soaking them over night. When the skins crack, place them in a bean pot, adding three tablespoonfuls of molasses and salt to taste. Bake all day. One hour before serving place link sausages over the top and allow them to bake.

Creole Soup.—Chop one small turnip, one onion and one carrot. Cook these with two tablespoonfuls of rice, a pint of tomato, two teaspoonfuls of salt and two cupfuls of water. When the vegetables are tender, rub through a colander. Add a tablespoonful of butter and serve hot.

Rhubarb Baked With Figs.—Cover well-washed figs with boiling water and cook until the water is nearly evaporated. Cut a pound of unpeeled rhubarb into inch pieces, put a layer into a baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, then add a few figs; repeat until the dish is full. Add a few tablespoonfuls of water and bake covered in a slow oven until the fruit is tender.

Helpful Suggestions.
On damp or rainy days be sure to supply the boiling pots and pans with plenty of water as the air like a wet sponge absorbs more moisture than when dry.

Obstinate stains of almost any kind may be removed with peroxide and soap; then place in the sun. Sometimes several applications will be necessary. Be sure to rinse well after using peroxide. Rust stains are easily removed with lemon juice and salt in the bright sunshine. Salts of lemon moistened with water is very effective and is always ready to use. Any stain remover should be carefully rinsed out after applying.

When baking a cake set the alarm clock so that no matter how busy the attention will be called to the kitchen.

Leftover oatmeal may, by the addition of water and reheating, serve again as fresh oatmeal.

Put a layer of finely chopped black walnuts over the top of a custard pie. Any chopped nuts or coconut will be good.

Old stocking legs make fine oversleeves to slip on when working in the kitchen; they save the good dress sleeves. Cut at the seams and sewed together they make very good dust cloths and dust mops.

Candles for use on the table will burn clearer and longer if placed on ice for a day before using. A ring of salt put around the lamp will give a soft steady flame and will burn all night.

Cracks and splits in furniture may be filled with melted beeswax, then varnished, so that they will hardly show.

Black mustard seed, if sowed in the garden, will make the best of salad plants late into the fall. Nice for greens and served with lettuce it is especially good.

Dampen the brush of the carpet sweeper—it will do much better work in picking up threads and lint.

Solled coat collars may be cleaned with cornmeal wet with gasoline; rub in well and brush out. Velvet will look like new thus cleaned.

Pineapple juice is a good cure for indigestion. Pineapple, one can shredded, three bananas and one orange sliced very thin makes a filling for a large cake.

Neenie Maxwell

There is no safe substitute

REDWOOD ICE DELIVERY

J. E. BAUGHN, Manager Phone Red. 155

Times-Gazette

ESTABLISHED IN 1859

61 Broadway, Redwood City, California
Phone Redwood 857D. E. O'KEEFE, Owner
Publishers—S. L. Netherton & J. R. Isaac, Lessees

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1926.

Shortridge's Accomplishments

SENATOR S. M. SHORTRIDGE in his speech before the federated Women Clubs of Los Angeles on Monday invited the attention of his hearers to a record of accomplishments in which he participated as follows:

"TREATIES OF PEACE with Germany and other nations ratified, insuring amity and profitable commercial relations for years to come—let us hope forever.

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION to our gallant and well-beloved soldiers and sailors of the World War.

GENEROUS AND JUST INCREASE of pensions to our aged and venerated soldiers and sailors of the Civil War and of the Spanish-American War.

LIBERALIZING AMENDMENTS to the World War Veteran's Act.

THE MINERS' RELIEF LAW and other laws for the benefit of our mining industry.

EQUITABLE AND DESERVED INCREASE in salaries of our postal carriers and employees.

AMENDMENT TO THE FEDERAL WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT providing compensation to federal employees suffering loss by reason of "occupational disease."

APPROPRIATION to complete a network of National highways.

LEGISLATION PROMOTING AVIATION in the Army, Navy and civil fields.

THE PUBLIC BUILDING BILL—the first in thirteen years—appropriating $165,000,000 for Post Office and other federal buildings.

LEGISLATION RELIEVING RECLAMATION PROJECTS from payment of many millions of dollars.

AN APPROPRIATION OF $100,000,000 for prevention of fires in our Southern California National Forests.

OVER FIVE BILLION DOLLARS REDUCTION in the National debt and millions of dollars reduction in the annual interest account.

REDUCTION OF FEDERAL TAXES whereby over two and a half millions of our small taxpayers are relieved from paying federal taxes.

THE TARIFF ACT OF 1922—giving protection to American labor and industry and, immediately of vital importance to us, protection for California.

THE WATSON-PARKER BILL doing away with the old Railroad Board and setting up a new board to insure harmony and peace in the railroad world.

A WISE AND EQUITABLE ADJUSTMENT with foreign nations based on economic conditions and their capacity to pay, of their obligations due us growing out of the World war in which we were allies or associates.

Thos. Finn for Shortridge

THOMAS FINN, the great Republican leader of San Francisco, has come out unqualifiedly in his support of Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, for reelection, giving his reasons why the senator should be returned to Washington. Mr. Finn says Mr. Shortridge has kept faith, has worked for the very best interests of California and should be re-nominated and reelected. Mr. Finn through long years of service as sheriff of San Francisco has won the confidence and respect of the people of the city. They love him for his honesty, loyalty and unselfishness. His support of Mr. Shortridge means that the senator will secure a plurality of 75,000 votes in San Francisco.

Richardson for Governor

GOVERNOR FRIEND W. RICHARDSON has given the people of the State of California an honest, efficient and business-like administration. He has kept the word "economy" from becoming obsolete. By his economical methods he has saved the state the sum of $10,000,000 during his administration. He has shown efficiency in the affairs of the state and has demonstrated his political independence on all occasions. It will be for the best interests of the state to renominate and reelect Governor Richardson.

Governor Richardson's administration has not been of the wishy-washy, "will-it-cost-me-votes?" type. It has been of the type that meets issues fearlessly, and that decides questions upon their merits rather than upon the basis of the whims of a portion of the populace, often swayed by false sentiment and incorrect premises. The easiest way is not always the best way out of a difficulty—and it has frequently been the BEST way, rather than the EASIEST way, that has been chosen by Governor Richardson in making his decisions. Business in Government begets Stability in Government. It keeps the Ship of State on an even keel.

Stability in Government begets Confidence in Government begets a prosperous and happy people.

Governor Friend Richardson RE-ELECT HIM

Happenings In Pescadero

Salty Whiffs From the Town Down by the Sea

Mrs. Echart, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Adair, returned to her home Monday.

Miss Fern McCormick, who has been visiting her aunt, Dr. Della M. Moore, of Vacaville, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Antone Davis and family were Santa Cruz visitors Sunday.

Mrs. F. S. Duarte is visiting friends in San Francisco.

Mrs. Harry A. Steinberg and daughter, Grace, are visiting relatives in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Williamson, Earle and Harriet Williamson and Melvin Mesquite were San Francisco visitors Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Woodhams motored to Mayfield Tuesday. Mrs. Woodhams remained and Miss Cecil Woodhams returned home with the judge.

Charles Steele, Jr. and Mrs. Ralph Woodman were visitors in San Mateo Monday.

A surprise party was tendered Mr. Cabral of Pomona. Many of the local people attended.

Miss Charlotte Secker of San Jose is visiting her sister, Mrs. Emilio Davis at the White House ranch.

Mrs. John McCormick, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Herman Frey, returned to her home in Halfmoon Bay Tuesday.

Noel Diaz has been visiting Dick McCormick in the Butano.

Mrs. Edward Weeks and children were in Santa Cruz Saturday.

Harry Olen of Palo Alto visited his wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Steele over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schly and children of San Francisco spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Steinberg.

J. G. Williamson spent Sunday in Daventry.

Lillian and Vernal Nunes are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Garcia from San Jose.

George Wood of San Francisco visited his sisters, the Misses Leighton, last week.

Mrs. Doris Barker of San Jose spent the first of the week with her sister, Mrs. M. R. Mattel and Mrs. Barker's children, who have been visiting here.

The many friends of Charles Steele are rejoicing at his coming home from the Mills Memorial hospital and to learn of his speedy recovery.

Mrs. J. Bordson and daughters, Violet and Eleanor of Oakland, after a visit with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pierson, Mrs. Dwight Dyant and family of Oakland are at their home here for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pinkham of Davenport celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary with 75 guests to wish them much happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Bennett were Watsonville visitors Sunday.

Mrs. James McCormick was hostess to about forty of the young folks Saturday evening. Dancing and a huge bonfire were some of the evening's enjoyment. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Mrs. Carlos Machado left for San Francisco Sunday, where she will represent the local council of the S. P. R. S. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clancy and two daughters, Maria and Clare of San Francisco, visited Mrs. James McCormick and children over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hansen and children, who have just returned from a visit to British Columbia, visited the former's sister, Miss Helena Hansen in the Butano Sunday from Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore and

Goings and Comings of East Palo Alto

Many Visitors Guests of Local Residents Over Week End

Frank McCormick of Lebanon, Illinois, has joined his wife, who is passing a few months with her sister, Mrs. T. C. Colby.

Mrs. C. N. Strawn is visiting friends in Pasadena this week.

Mrs. A. A. Knipschild of Oakland, who has been visiting her son, C. A. March and his wife, has returned to her home.

Nadine oWod is passing the week in San Francisco with relatives.

Mrs. Campion passed the last week in San Francisco with relatives.

Mrs. C. Bristow of Alton, Illinois, and her sister, Miss Sarah Martin of Bridgeport, are visiting with Miss Victoria King.

Mrs. C. E. Mast and two daughters of Dillon, Montana, are house guests at the home of Mrs. Mary Hansen. Mrs. Mast and Mrs. Hansen are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cotharin, their daughter Norma and son, Jack of Los Angeles, are guests at the A. E. Martinelli home.

Mrs. Helen Southar and her nephew, Homer Southar of Los Angeles who have been visiting at the Charles Houck home, have returned to the south.

Mrs. W. A. McElherton is passing a few days in Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Romes, daughter Muriel and son Billy have returned from a two weeks' motor trip in the high Sierras and Yosemite.

The So and So Club and husbands motored to Chicken Inn for

THIRTY YEARS AGO

July 18, 1896
Johnnie Poole is enjoying a well-earned vacation in the southern part of the state.

Mrs. Princeville is up from Gilroy spending a few days with a dinner party Monday evening, complimenting one of their members, Mrs. Lou Bennett (Mrs. Elsie Grimes). Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were married the early part of the month.

Mrs. Joseph Hooker and daughter, Cecile of Gustine, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bareilles, returned home Sunday.

Next Tuesday evening is regular Grange meeting night. All new applications for membership should be in for the degrees to be conferred in the month of August.

days with her daughter, Angie.
Louis H. Ward of San Francisco is spending a few days with his friend, Will Solen.
Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lund of Morgan Hill called on their many friend here this week.
Miss Walsh has returned to San Jose. She has been visiting her cousin here, Miss Ella Gunning.
Mrs. Charles Jacobus returned home this week from a pleasant visit with friends at Santa Rosa.
Miss Dollie Kearshe has returned from Monterey after an extended visit with relatives.

Pescadero—The Pacific Mail Steamship Company will sail Tuesday morning for San Francisco. The terrible fire in the minds of the people here this week.

San Carlos Cream

REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA

GRADE "A" PASTEURIZED MILK

Table and Pastry Cream—Fresh Butter—Buttermilk

Dairies made in Redwood City, San Carlos and Belmont

Phone Redwood 881-W

320 WASHINGTON ST. OPPOSITE RAILROAD

Bank of Italy RESOURCES

now over 400 Million Dollars

Bank of Italy Savings—Commercial—Trust Capital and Surplus—$30,700,000 Head Office—San Francisco

REDWOOD CITY BRANCH

ADVISORY BOARD

F. X. KAVANAUGH, Vice-Chairman

J. P. WELLS

JOHN V. SOUZA

D. R. STAFFORD

E. H. SAMPSON

OFFICERS

J. P. WELLS, Asst. Vice-President

ROBERT CARLOS, Manager

A. ROSSI, Asst. Cashier

VACATION!

Low Fares

—to most cities and summer playgrounds on Pacific Coast. Tickets on sale daily with 16-day or 3-months limits. Plan your vacation to take advantage of these travel bargains.

Reduced roundtrip fares to Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Santa Cruz, Del Monte, Lake Tahoe, Yosemite, to the Pacific Northwest and to many other places. Fast, comfortable service daily.

Ask for "Outing Resorts" folder

Southern Pacific Lines

L. R. DAINS, Agent

Readiness

ALL over the then-known world the runners and mounted messengers of ancient Assyria bore the decrees and edicts of their rulers. Trained for fleetness and endurance, these message bearers of a vanished empire stood at their posts, stripped for the task, prepared for instant dispatch of whatever was given them to speed to distant points.

The universal message bearer now is the telephone. Its nationwide range has come about through a far-flung system of wires, cables, switchboards and supplementary apparatus. Through the cooperation of a vast army of men and women it daily transmits the thoughts and desires of millions.

It is because of unceasing inspection, watchfulness, coordination and all else that makes for instant readiness that Americans today, anywhere, can talk to one another, any time.

THE PACIFIC TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

BELL SYSTEM

One Policy - One System - Universal Service

The people of California regulate public utilities through a State Commission.

Rates, service and finances are under the jurisdiction of this Commission. Its orders and decisions are based on the studies of engineers, statisticians and economists.

Regulation coupled with the inspections, economies and foresight of the Power Companies insure fair rates and good service.

Rates in California are low. Service is a model for the rest of the United States.

Since 1913 the average per capita cost of living increased 65%, while the average cost of electricity decreased 81%.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

P.G. and E.

Owned—Operated—Managed by Californians

CHAPTER XI—Continued

Her face blazed with crimson, the glitter in her eyes concentrated to flames of jealousy. Here was the real reason—aside from mercenary interest—for her revelation.

"How do you know he is in love with her?"

"How do I know?" She laughed scornfully. "Because I am a woman. Because I know Ted Baxter. Because I know that he never loved me, has never loved any girl. We've been amusements for him. But he's in love now. He couldn't deny it when I taxed him with it."

"Baxter's rotten, clean through. I'll tell you what your best friend did. Not because you wouldn't lend him money—or couldn't. But because he saw a chance to do away with you as a rival and a chance to make money at the same time. He couldn't resist that combination."

"So he told her and her father all about your schemes, that you had made friends with them to cover your prospecting, your surveys and your photographing. It seems that one of their men, a Mexican, had been watching you. He saw you early one morning where you had been testing rock. He reported to Mr. Clinton and that made Clinton suspicious. The girl stuck up for you at first. But when you know better than I do the kind of man Clinton is. But he was furious. He says you abused his hospitality, that you intended to desecrate the graves of his dead. He called you a Yankee spy. And he gave Ted Baxter a purchase option for agricultural purposes. Principally, of course, as a protection for himself against condemnation."

"Now Ted is laughing at you. The representative of the colony is in town. Ted takes him to Hermanos valley tomorrow. And you are the fool. Unless—"

"Unless what?"

"Baxter thinks he is going to marry that girl. I don't know what kind of a girl she is. She may take him on the rebound, if she was in love with you. But she won't marry him. Baxter is going to marry me."

"I thought you were going away."

"After he marries me. After he makes our child honest. The flame leaped again in her eyes. "He dared—he dared to pretend that he was not the father of my baby. And he knows—oh, he knows different. I was a little fool when I met him but—I was a good girl. I wanted fun—and I got it. But, if I pay, he'll pay, too. I'm not going to live with him. He's a liar and a cheat. My baby may inherit that. If it does I hope it dies."

"I've got to give up my position soon, the girls are beginning to notice things. I'll go away. I can get another place after it's all over. But I'll not go on his money. Even if he came through. Now, Mr. Warner, have I earned my fifteen hundred dollars?"

"You shall have it," said Caleb slowly. Regretment was swift, mounting to rage, within him but he kept a grip on himself—until he met Baxter. "You've earned your money. You shall have it tomorrow."

She saw little muscles bunched about his lower jaw, the clean, firmest line of it, light like that reflected from polished steel in his eyes. Into her own eyes admiration entered.

"You've got something up your sleeve," she said knowingly. "I'd like to watch your session with Baxter. Don't kill him." She laughed, off key, recklessly.

"I won't," Caleb promised grimly. "How'll I get the money to you?"

She took out a pencil and a card and scribbled.

"Here's my address. Send it there. Now, let me go first while you settle the check. It might spoil your reputation if we were seen going out together," she added, bitterly. "Good-by."

She parted the curtains and was gone as Caleb touched the bell. The waiter came promptly and he paid the bill and started for the street.

As Caleb entered the foyer the swinging doors from the main cafe opened and Clinton and his daughter emerged.

Automatically, without thought, he raised his hat. Betty Clinton was looking in his direction and she did not evade his glance. Neither did she answer it. But Caleb saw a faint color stealing up from neck to brow, saw her eyebrows contract in annoyance. Then her father saw him. Clinton's eyes blazed while Caleb bit his lips as he replaced his hat, furious at his action yet not certain that he would not have repeated it. He was unconscious of anything that he had done that should cause him to retract courtesies towards the Clintons. To do so would be an acknowledgment of a shamefacedness he was far from feeling.

"Go on and join Baxter," Clinton said in a low voice to his daughter. She went through the open door held for her by an attendant. Baxter had been with them. He had gone ahead to the car. Baxter must have been sitting beneath the alcove where Caleb and Mary Morgan had held their interview. And Betty Clinton had seen the pale face and shrinking figure of the stenographer on the stairs behind Caleb. He was sure of that as Clinton advanced toward him threateningly while the thoughts shut swiftly through his brain. He faced Clinton coolly.

"You are impudent, sir," said Clinton. His breath almost fuming with the temper he held in uncertain leash. "I have only one arm left, sir," went on Clinton, "but, if you have the impudence to again salute me or my daughter, I shall find it sufficient to horsewhip you, you sneaking Yankee!" Caleb did not flinch. His voice was steady.

"You will apologize to me some day, sir."

"Pah!" Clinton wheeled, his straight, spare form marching with military precision through the door. Caleb watched him, his blood seeming to boil. Before he could follow Mary Morgan touched him on the elbow. He whirled, in no mood for her.

"Don't snarl at me," she said. "Snarl at Ted Baxter. I want to tell you something. That girl doesn't quite believe all she has heard. And the reason is, because she doesn't want to. Now go."

As Caleb crossed the street a car went by, Baxter driving. Clinton and his daughter were in the tonneau. Caleb's hands balled into fists, opened with clenching fingers. He ached to spring for the footboard and drag Baxter from behind the wheel. Baxter saw him standing to let them pass and shrugged his shoulders as he gave Caleb a short smile of gleeful malice. Caleb made the curb, trembling with rage. He had shaken before like that.

He walked his dinner with a cigar and walked up to Semaphore hill. There were a few unimportant letters waiting for him, and a small package. He opened it. The jade pendant was inside, the sign of Pisces, returned from Betty Clinton without a word. He held it for a little in the palm of his hand, his thoughts bitter, before he put the trinket away in his desk drawer, which he locked.

Baxter did not materialize. Caleb was up before the night man went off and made certain of that fact. After he had taken his bag to the office and added to it what he needed, he dropped in at the club before he went to the bank. And he met Doctor Fields coming from the dining room. The physician stopped him.

"Suppose you know about Baxter?"

"No. What?"

"Nothing serious, though this might be a good chance to make him think so. You share a suite with him, don't you? And he didn't show up last night? For cause. He brought him home from the beach poisoned—the only worst for it. They are selling the crudest kind of stuff out of the resort. It's got to be stopped. Baxter arrived literally blind drunk. Eighty-eight per cent crude alcohol with glycerin, a little carbolic acid to give it the bite, burnt sugar for coloring."

"And I'm going to try and put the fear of God and whisky into his heart—or his liver—while he's here in the club under my eye. Let Ted Baxter keep up this game and he'll practically lose his reason, be purely bestial, he might commit any crime—even murder. You're his friend. Do what you can. He'll be fairly fit by tomorrow. The stuff hasn't really got him yet. We'll keep him quiet today with bromides, or something stiffer. You're closer to him than any one else just now, I fancy."

"I'm sorry, doctor," said Caleb. "But we've had a row. Pretty serious one. And I don't know. I've got to go out of town on urgent business for a day or two."

"Hah! Had a row? Then you can't do a thing. Just aggravate him. Confront him, he's rowing with all his best friends. Not quite responsible perhaps. Good-by, Warner."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The waiter came promptly and he paid the bill and started for the street.

As Caleb entered the foyer the swinging doors from the main cafe opened and Clinton and his daughter emerged.

Automatically, without thought, he raised his hat. Betty Clinton was looking in his direction and she did not evade his glance. Neither did she answer it. But Caleb saw a faint color stealing up from neck to brow, saw her eyebrows contract in annoyance. Then her father saw him. Clinton's eyes blazed while Caleb bit his lips as he replaced his hat, furious at his action yet not certain that he would not have repeated it. He was unconscious of anything that he had done that should cause him to retract courtesies towards the Clintons. To do so would be an acknowledgment of a shamefacedness he was far from feeling.

"Go on and join Baxter," Clinton said in a low voice to his daughter. She went through the open door held for her by an attendant. Baxter had been with them. He had gone ahead to the car. Baxter must have been sitting beneath the alcove where Caleb and Mary Morgan had held their interview. And Betty Clinton had seen the pale face and shrinking figure of the stenographer on the stairs behind Caleb. He was sure of that as Clinton advanced toward him threateningly while the thoughts shut swiftly through his brain. He faced Clinton coolly.

"You are impudent, sir," said Clinton. His breath almost fuming with the temper he held in uncertain leash. "I have only one arm left, sir," went on Clinton, "but, if you have the impudence to again salute me or my daughter, I shall find it sufficient to horsewhip you, you sneaking Yankee!" Caleb did not flinch. His voice was steady.

"You will apologize to me some day, sir."

"Pah!" Clinton wheeled, his straight, spare form marching with military precision through the door. Caleb watched him, his blood seeming to boil. Before he could follow Mary Morgan touched him on the elbow. He whirled, in no mood for her.

"Don't snarl at me," she said. "Snarl at Ted Baxter. I want to tell you something. That girl doesn't quite believe all she has heard. And the reason is, because she doesn't want to. Now go."

As Caleb crossed the street a car went by, Baxter driving. Clinton and his daughter were in the tonneau. Caleb's hands balled into fists, opened with clenching fingers. He ached to spring for the footboard and drag Baxter from behind the wheel. Baxter saw him standing to let them pass and shrugged his shoulders as he gave Caleb a short smile of gleeful malice. Caleb made the curb, trembling with rage. He had shaken before like that.

He walked his dinner with a cigar and walked up to Semaphore hill. There were a few unimportant letters waiting for him, and a small package. He opened it. The jade pendant was inside, the sign of Pisces, returned from Betty Clinton without a word. He held it for a little in the palm of his hand, his thoughts bitter, before he put the trinket away in his desk drawer, which he locked.

Baxter did not materialize. Caleb was up before the night man went off and made certain of that fact. After he had taken his bag to the office and added to it what he needed, he dropped in at the club before he went to the bank. And he met Doctor Fields coming from the dining room. The physician stopped him.

"Suppose you know about Baxter?"

"No. What?"

"Nothing serious, though this might be a good chance to make him think so. You share a suite with him, don't you? And he didn't show up last night? For cause. He brought him home from the beach poisoned—the only worst for it. They are selling the crudest kind of stuff out of the resort. It's got to be stopped. Baxter arrived literally blind drunk. Eighty-eight per cent crude alcohol with glycerin, a little carbolic acid to give it the bite, burnt sugar for coloring."

"And I'm going to try and put the fear of God and whisky into his heart—or his liver—while he's here in the club under my eye. Let Ted Baxter keep up this game and he'll practically lose his reason, be purely bestial, he might commit any crime—even murder. You're his friend. Do what you can. He'll be fairly fit by tomorrow. The stuff hasn't really got him yet. We'll keep him quiet today with bromides, or something stiffer. You're closer to him than any one else just now, I fancy."

"I'm sorry, doctor," said Caleb. "But we've had a row. Pretty serious one. And I don't know. I've got to go out of town on urgent business for a day or two."

"Hah! Had a row? Then you can't do a thing. Just aggravate him. Confront him, he's rowing with all his best friends. Not quite responsible perhaps. Good-by, Warner."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The waiter came promptly and he paid the bill and started for the street.

proclaim "aleb as an abuser of hospitality—worse—to make him out a scoundrel in the eyes of the girl he loved—for Baxter to endeavor to gild for himself the love of that girl, was beyond all forgiveness. It clamored for punishment, physical, amply sufficient.

The recollection of many times when he had pulled Baxter out of a scrape, often to his own detriment, added fuel to the fire of his resentment. For the first time he saw his friend clearly—selfish, unprincipled, spoiled—to use Mary Morgan's stronger term, "rotten."

Marlin stopped opposite to him and broke into his musings.

"Huckle wants to get in touch with you," he said. "Promised him I'd tell you if I ran across you. He's probably home by now."

"All right," Caleb's answer was apathetic. For the moment business seemed a dead issue but he roused himself and went to the telephone booth. Huckle's voice came to him, eager, stimulating.

"I want to go over the ground with you right away," he said. "Just a preliminary, personal survey. We haven't any time to lose. Will tomorrow morning be convenient?"

Caleb responded to the engineer's energy.

"Surely," he replied. "Make it noon."

"Then the Ferry building for the one o'clock Broadway boat. It connects with the Coyote Canyon train."

Caleb went back to his seat. The clubroom began to thin out and he ordered his dinner. There was no sign of Baxter. When the meal was announced he called the head boy.

"If Mr. Baxter comes in, let me know. I shall be at dinner."

"He won't be in, sir. He telephoned a little while ago to tell Mr. Henley he'd meet him at ten o'clock. They had an appointment outside."

To Henley was a man patterned to Baxter's caliber. Caleb had met him and never cared to press the acquaintance. Henley had been Baxter's companion on trips with Mary Morgan and Henley's own special fame. Tonight meant some similar expedition. It probably meant also that Baxter would get drunk.

He finished his dinner with a cigar and walked up to Semaphore hill. There were a few unimportant letters waiting for him, and a small package. He opened it. The jade pendant was inside, the sign of Pisces, returned from Betty Clinton without a word. He held it for a little in the palm of his hand, his thoughts bitter, before he put the trinket away in his desk drawer, which he locked.

Baxter did not materialize. Caleb was up before the night man went off and made certain of that fact. After he had taken his bag to the office and added to it what he needed, he dropped in at the club before he went to the bank. And he met Doctor Fields coming from the dining room. The physician stopped him.

"Suppose you know about Baxter?"

"No. What?"

"Nothing serious, though this might be a good chance to make him think so. You share a suite with him, don't you? And he didn't show up last night? For cause. He brought him home from the beach poisoned—the only worst for it. They are selling the crudest kind of stuff out of the resort. It's got to be stopped. Baxter arrived literally blind drunk. Eighty-eight per cent crude alcohol with glycerin, a little carbolic acid to give it the bite, burnt sugar for coloring."

"And I'm going to try and put the fear of God and whisky into his heart—or his liver—while he's here in the club under my eye. Let Ted Baxter keep up this game and he'll practically lose his reason, be purely bestial, he might commit any crime—even murder. You're his friend. Do what you can. He'll be fairly fit by tomorrow. The stuff hasn't really got him yet. We'll keep him quiet today with bromides, or something stiffer. You're closer to him than any one else just now, I fancy."

"I'm sorry, doctor," said Caleb. "But we've had a row. Pretty serious one. And I don't know. I've got to go out of town on urgent business for a day or two."

"Hah! Had a row? Then you can't do a thing. Just aggravate him. Confront him, he's rowing with all his best friends. Not quite responsible perhaps. Good-by, Warner."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The waiter came promptly and he paid the bill and started for the street.

As Caleb entered the foyer the swinging doors from the main cafe opened and Clinton and his daughter emerged.

Automatically, without thought, he raised his hat. Betty Clinton was looking in his direction and she did not evade his glance. Neither did she answer it. But Caleb saw a faint color stealing up from neck to brow, saw her eyebrows contract in annoyance. Then her father saw him. Clinton's eyes blazed while Caleb bit his lips as he replaced his hat, furious at his action yet not certain that he would not have repeated it. He was unconscious of anything that he had done that should cause him to retract courtesies towards the Clintons. To do so would be an acknowledgment of a shamefacedness he was far from feeling.

"Go on and join Baxter," Clinton said in a low voice to his daughter. She went through the open door held for her by an attendant. Baxter had been with them. He had gone ahead to the car. Baxter must have been sitting beneath the alcove where Caleb and Mary Morgan had held their interview. And Betty Clinton had seen the pale face and shrinking figure of the stenographer on the stairs behind Caleb. He was sure of that as Clinton advanced toward him threateningly while the thoughts shut swiftly through his brain. He faced Clinton coolly.

"You are impudent, sir," said Clinton. His breath almost fuming with the temper he held in uncertain leash. "I have only one arm left, sir," went on Clinton, "but, if you have the impudence to again salute me or my daughter, I shall find it sufficient to horsewhip you, you sneaking Yankee!" Caleb did not flinch. His voice was steady.

"You will apologize to me some day, sir."

"Pah!" Clinton wheeled, his straight, spare form marching with military precision through the door. Caleb watched him, his blood seeming to boil. Before he could follow Mary Morgan touched him on the elbow. He whirled, in no mood for her.

"Don't snarl at me," she said. "Snarl at Ted Baxter. I want to tell you something. That girl doesn't quite believe all she has heard. And the reason is, because she doesn't want to. Now go."

As Caleb crossed the street a car went by, Baxter driving. Clinton and his daughter were in the tonneau. Caleb's hands balled into fists, opened with clenching fingers. He ached to spring for the footboard and drag Baxter from behind the wheel. Baxter saw him standing to let them pass and shrugged his shoulders as he gave Caleb a short smile of gleeful malice. Caleb made the curb, trembling with rage. He had shaken before like that.

He walked his dinner with a cigar and walked up to Semaphore hill. There were a few unimportant letters waiting for him, and a small package. He opened it. The jade pendant was inside, the sign of Pisces, returned from Betty Clinton without a word. He held it for a little in the palm of his hand, his thoughts bitter, before he put the trinket away in his desk drawer, which he locked.

Baxter did not materialize. Caleb was up before the night man went off and made certain of that fact. After he had taken his bag to the office and added to it what he needed, he dropped in at the club before he went to the bank. And he met Doctor Fields coming from the dining room. The physician stopped him.

"Suppose you know about Baxter?"

"No. What?"

"Nothing serious, though this might be a good chance to make him think so. You share a suite with him, don't you? And he didn't show up last night? For cause. He brought him home from the beach poisoned—the only worst for it. They are selling the crudest kind of stuff out of the resort. It's got to be stopped. Baxter arrived literally blind drunk. Eighty-eight per cent crude alcohol with glycerin, a little carbolic acid to give it the bite, burnt sugar for coloring."

"And I'm going to try and put the fear of God and whisky into his heart—or his liver—while he's here in the club under my eye. Let Ted Baxter keep up this game and he'll practically lose his reason, be purely bestial, he might commit any crime—even murder. You're his friend. Do what you can. He'll be fairly fit by tomorrow. The stuff hasn't really got him yet. We'll keep him quiet today with bromides, or something stiffer. You're closer to him than any one else just now, I fancy."

"I'm sorry, doctor," said Caleb. "But we've had a row. Pretty serious one. And I don't know. I've got to go out of town on urgent business for a day or two."

"Hah! Had a row? Then you can't do a thing. Just aggravate him. Confront him, he's rowing with all his best friends. Not quite responsible perhaps. Good-by, Warner."

American Golfers Retain Cup

For the fifth consecutive year, ever since 1921, America's golfers have beaten Britain's in the Walker cup matches, played this year at St. Andrews. In the single matches America scored 3½ points to Britain's 4½, and thus won the cup, 6½ to 5½. The upper photograph shows the American golfers, (left to right), back row: R. MacKenzie, Jess Sweetser, R. T. Jones, Watts Gunn, and G. von Elm. Front row: J. Guldorf, R. Gardner and F. Olmsted. The lower photograph shows members of the British Walker cup team.

Winning Star of Reds

Herewith an unusual and striking picture of Pete Donohue, star pitcher of the leading Cincinnati Reds. Donohue uses his brains to pitch. He is smart and keen and always studying his baseball lessons. He came direct to big league success from a Texas college. He has a most pleasing personality and is just as likable as that smile in the picture indicates.

BASEBALL SQUITS

Old Jack Quinn continues to fool the best of them.

Indianapolis has sent Pitcher Alfred Reynolds to the Decatur club of the Three-I league.

The Detroit club sent Pitcher Clyde Barfoot to the Mission club of the Pacific Coast league.

Cincinnati fans are inclined to hand Manager Jack Hendricks the full limit of credit for boosting the Reds.

Victor A. Hanson, 27, of Syracuse has been elected captain of the 1927 baseball team of Syracuse university.

The Yankee stadium, in New York city, is the largest of the major league ball parks, with a seating capacity of 65,000.

George W. Bradley, aged fifty, who pitched the first no-hit, no-run game in the National league, is now a policeman in Philadelphia, Pa.

Bucky Harris, youngest and most successful of all major league managers, was discarded by six clubs in nine years before he made good.

Fred Marberry is considered the "champion relief pitcher" of the country. Last year he worked in fifty-five games for the Washington team.

Air-bait ball was played back in the eighties. October 1, 1884, the ten clubs comprising the American association circuit scored only 28 runs in that day's play.

Two pitchers of the St. Paul American association club have been sold. Ad Holtzhauser was sent to Dallas of the Texas league and Charles Convent was released to Binghamton, N. Y.

Cadet Arthur L. Cobb, of Greenwood, S. C., and Cadet Joseph N. Gilbreth, of Bethesda, Md., were elected captains of the army baseball and track teams, respectively.

Cincinnati evidently has a bitter as well as a pitcher in Lucas, former Boston National player, whom Manager Baneroff of the Braves once tried to convert into a second baseman because of his hitting.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, Chicago Cubs pitcher, recently suffered his first sore arm since he began hurling in 1909.

The Cincinnati Reds announce the sale of Clyde Sukeforth, young catcher, to the Minneapolis club of the American association.

The Boston Red Sox have obtained from the Columbus club of the American association, Regan, an infielder, for Emmett McCann, formerly of Portland, Ore., and Jimmy Geygan.

Sport Notes

Montreal has a Chinese ski club.

To the average golfer an eagle is as extinct a birdie as the dodo.

The first rules governing baseball were drawn in New York in 1857.

Olympic tennis games are scheduled at Amsterdam July 6 to 15, 1928.

Harvard has a runner named Miller who weighs 210 pounds. He does the century in 90.8.

A cynic is one who observes that all work and no play is a good description of some golf.

Tacoma has a municipal fishing pond, ten miles long and one mile wide, which will be stocked with trout.

George L. Mittelsdorf, Jr., 27, of West Orange, N. J., has been elected captain of the Colby college track team.

Dean Cromwell, track coach at the University of Southern California, believes that some one will soon run 100 yards in 9.4 seconds.

Jack Bernstein, lightweight boxer, used to fight under the ring names of Battling Kidney and Kid Murphy. His real name is Jack Dodick.

Fred Low, a professional at the Unicorn Country club, near Boston, Mass., recently made his first hole in one after playing the game for 26 years.

Ralph Mulford, auto racer, is known as "The Parson" because he never has used tobacco, liquor, or profane language and observes the Sabbath strictly.

Charles Hoff, Norwegian pole vaulter, will be the official guide of 100 Northwestern university students and friends when they visit the University of Oslo this summer.

University of California will use 350 gallons of gray paint in painting seats and woodwork of the big stadium so that it may be inviting when the students return to college next semester.

Cooney Doing Nicely

Shortstop Jimmy Cooney of the Chicago Cubs, who has been out of the game on account of injuries, has returned to his old job, and is putting up a rattling good game at bat and in fielding.

Balls Collide in Air

Amongst the curious golf happenings the following at St. Andrews will surely take some beating. Two players in foursomes—Army Golfing society against St. Andrews—hidden from each other by a bunker, hit full iron shots toward the sixteenth green. When about twenty yards from the hole and five feet above the ground the balls collided with force and 'dropped' either side of the hole about five yards apart. The truth of this yarn is vouched for.

Hitting Helps Pitchers

Hitting alone 'cannot win a pennant, but hitting goes a long way toward instilling confidence in the pitchers. With a staff of veterans, the New York Yankees' heavy hitting is evidently giving the pitchers much encouragement. To know that his team will give him five or six runs is a source of great confidence to a pitcher, and with the pitching staff going along in a fair sort of way, the Yankees have regained the pennant-winning stride.

Ray Barker Quits to Become Missionary

Ray Barker, National A. A. U. half-mile running champion, has deserted the track to become a missionary.

The Northern Baptist convention, in session at Washington, sent him, along with his brother, Rev. Richard S. Barker, to Burma.

Barker is one of the best-known runners in the United States, having been a member of the relay team of the Illinois Athletic club, which set a world's record for four miles several years ago. He also was amateur of the 1924 American Olympic team.

FEW BATTERS ABLE TO STICK AT .320

Only 24 Since 1871 Have Hit at That Figure.

Just two dozen batters out of the more than 5,000 regulars who played professional baseball in the big leagues since the sport was inaugurated in 1871 have maintained a batting average of .320 or better over a ten-year period.

Of these 24 select players, eight, or one-third of the number, are playing ball today. They are: Ty Cobb, Rogers Hornsby, George Sisler, Tris Speaker, Babe Ruth, Harry Hellmann, Eddie Roush and Eddie Collins. The first four named played their name near the top of the heap. Only one of the ancients, Pete Browning, of the eighties, broke into the snobbish circle of swat.

Cobb with a lifetime average of .369 comes first; then Hornsby with .363; with Browning batting .353 for his dozen years of play.

The others with their averages are: Sisler, .352; Speaker, .349; James O'Neill, .348; Dan Brothers, .348; Ed Delahanty, .346; Babe Ruth, .346; Willie Keeler, .345; W. R. Hamilton, .344; Jess Burkett, .342; Cap Anson, .341; Nap Lajoie, .338; Sam Thompson, .337; Harry Hellmann, .336; Rousch, .334; John McGraw, .334; Mike Donlin, .334; Eddie Collins, .333; Hugh Duffy, .330; Hans Wagner, .329; Barry, .323; G. Van Hatten, .322.

Cobb leads those with the greatest total of hits, with 3,823, and the others with more than 3,000 are Speaker, Anson, Lajoie, Eddie Collins and Wagner.

Anson played the longest term of years—27, while Cobb and Lajoie tallied 21 each. Sisler and O'Neill have the shortest term of years in the register, with the minimum ten each.

Ross to Try Channel

It is reported in Paris that Norman Ross, former swimming instructor, will attempt during August to swim the English channel. Joe Coster, the man who controls the only available tugs for following swimmers, is said to be reserving a tug for Ross.

Nehf Adds Strength to Reds' Twirling Staff

Burgomaster Garry Herrmann's Cincinnati Reds are bringing joy to the big cardiac organ of their owner these days. Jack Hendricks has his team moving along smoothly, almost relentlessly, and the goods are being delivered. Many critics believe that Hendricks made a good move when he picked up Art Nehf from the Giants.

Nehf can't work often, but he is one of the smartest twirlers in the game and there will doubtless be many occasions when he can be injected judiciously into the Porttown lineup.

Hendricks now owns one of the best-rounded pitching staffs in the business, and if the other department's function as well as his slab corps is bound to do the Reds will stay in the race for a long time and may furnish numerous surprises.

Hitting Helps Pitchers

Hitting alone 'cannot win a pennant, but hitting goes a long way toward instilling confidence in the pitchers. With a staff of veterans, the New York Yankees' heavy hitting is evidently giving the pitchers much encouragement. To know that his team will give him five or six runs is a source of great confidence to a pitcher, and with the pitching staff going along in a fair sort of way, the Yankees have regained the pennant-winning stride.

"BAYER ASPIRIN" PROVED ORGANIZ AND M BOT

Take without Fear in "Bayer" Pack

BAYER

Health of Imp

The Girl Scouts are now relying on Bayer's Aspirin

Does not affect the Heart

Unless you see the Bayer cross on package or on tablet, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin. Proven safe by millions of tests by physicians over twenty years.

Colds
Neuritis
Toothache
Neuralgia

Each unbroken Bayer Aspirin tablet contains exactly one grain of acetylsalicylic acid, and is guaranteed to be pure.

Banish Cuts

By the use of Banish, the skin is kept clean and free from blemishes. It is a perfect skin cleanser and is used by the most refined people.

To Develop

Although people are able to do a great deal of work, the body is not in the best of health. The body is a machine, and it needs to be kept in good working order. The best way to keep the body in good health is to use Banish.

Seats Provided for the Tired

In

News of Menlo Park

Open Summer Home at Seabright
Miss Agnes Mason and Miss Bessie Mason have opened their cottage at Seabright, where they will remain for the summer.

Former Resident Dies in S. F.
John Borello, a former resident of Menlo Park, passed away at the Letterman hospital in San Francisco last week following a long illness. The deceased was a gardener and worked here for some time about Menlo Park. He joined the army during the war and was sent to Camp Lewis. He leaves a widow and a minor child.

Off For Santa Cruz On Vacation
Miss Bertha Kuck and her niece and nephew, Betty Welch and John Welch, have gone to Santa Cruz to spend a short vacation.

Gone To Oregon
A. E. Thomas and family have motored to Oregon to spend two weeks in that state and in northern California. They will camp on the way.

To Leave For Yosemite
E. E. Quayle, wife and niece will leave for a camping trip to the Yosemite early next week to be gone for two weeks. They will be accompanied by Mark Montgomery, the reary broker.

Some Turkeys!
There is a turkey raiser in Placer county that is becoming rich in raising the Thanksgiving Bird. He owns a placer mine and dynamites the ground when the turkeys follow, and pick up the nuggets. After three days of this work the turkey is killed, the crop full of nuggets is taken out and set aside, the bird is dressed and sent to the market, bringing all the way from $5 to $6. The nuggets taken from the bird's crop amount to as high as $30. In this way the miner-turkey raiser, James Murray, the local turkey raiser, will have to go some to compete with this Placer county farmer.

C. of C. In Session
The Chamber of Commerce held a meeting last Monday evening. After transacting routine business, the chamber adjourned to meet again on the first Monday in August. A committee consisting of Frank H. Calne, E. E. Quayle and Montgomery was appointed to meet with the Oakland Chamber of Commerce to discuss the matter of trade between Menlo Park and the East Bay City. It is understood the chamber is to sponsor a line of business to run from Oakland over the Dumbarton bridge to Redwood City, Menlo Park and Palo Alto. Also that the big business houses of that city are to compete with San Francisco in securing trade in these cities mentioned. Daily deliveries are to be established similar to the system now in vogue by San Francisco. The local chamber is to encourage the scheme and the committee was appointed to confer with the Oakland chamber in this matter.

Beauty
with Economy

COLONIAL
Decorative Chintzes
and Cretonnes
For the Smartly Furnished Room

THESE charmingly graceful designs in many varied color combinations are unexcelled in giving the modern home the latest decorative touch. A new set of hangings, a re-covered armchair, a bright lamp shade in quaint chintz pattern—any one of these does much to give a room just the necessary note of completion. Ask to see these beautiful fabrics, all moderately priced.

Frazer & Co.

PALO ALTO

branch department maintained at East Palo Alto.

Active Work on New Buildings
Active work on the new buildings at the base hospital was begun this week. The greater portion of the material for the new structures will be hauled from Menlo Park. Over a million dollars are to be expended by the government at the institution.

Mrs. William Carnduff Ill
Mrs. William Carnduff is quite ill at her home on the Willow road and is suffering with an attack of pneumonia. Her sickness is quite alarming.

Preparing For Carnival
The Native Sons and Native Daughters are preparing for their carnival on August 7. There is to be a street dance on that occasion.

Food Sale Planned For Saturday
St. Joseph Alumni is planning to give a food sale on Saturday, July 24. Home-made pies, cakes and other delicacies will be offered for sale on that day.

"Hands Across The Border"
Fred Thompson in "Hands Across The Border" will be presented at the New Menlo Theatre this evening. "Mummy Love"

Citizens Attention

It is of grave importance that all eligible voters in Northern California register and vote at the PRIMARY ELECTION to be held August 31, 1926.

Do you realize that Southern California is doing its utmost to reregister every eligible voter? The reason for this is so apparent that they may have control in the affairs of the State of California. The expenditure of public monies is to a great extent controlled by the number of registered voters in the community, and as Southern California has had placed on the ballot certain bills which call for spending highway funds in their particular district, it becomes necessary for each and every man and woman of Northern California to register and vote at the coming election.

Registration and transfers for Primaries close July 31, 1926. You may register in your community at County Clerk's Office, Ryan's Drug Store, James Irving, 288 Fulton St., or at S. P. Station, Victor Hildebrandt, Roosevelt Avenue.

Mrs. Mary Winter, 168 Hudson Street.
Mrs. Elizabeth Hogan, 10 Fulton Street.
Mrs. Mary J. Cobb, 611 Arlington Road.

This space is made possible by the friends of ELSA McINN, candidate for State Assembly, San Mateo County, who believe that when elected she will represent the best interest of the people in this community.

STATEMENT OF CONDITION

OF THE
SAN MATEO COUNTY BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION
as of the close of business on June 30th, 1926.

Assets
Loans—On Mortgages... $ 5,900.00
On Definite Contract... 914,655.00
On Shares... 2,055.00
Arrears—On Shares... 3,684.40
On Interest... 6,266.10
Cash—In Office... 5,814.02
Real Estate—Office Building 25,724.95

Liabilities
Installment Shares—Dues... 461,825.00
Full-paid Invest. Certs... 73,662.51
Principal... 33,582.52
Loans Due and Incomplete... 5,530.78
Due Treasurer—Overdraft... 23,000.00
Due Payable... 54,000.00
Reserve Fund... 3,429.13
Profit and Loss Undivided... 225.01
Sundry Ledger Accounts... 9,321.50
Delinquent Dues and Interest... 9,321.50

Total... $989,109.47

Expenses
Salaries... 132.62
Office Expenses—Full-Paid... 11.25
Term Dividends... 2,901.27
Balance Undivided... $5,655.14

Income
Undivided Balance... $3,429.13
Last Report... 53.51
Interest... 12.50
Certificated... 169.00

Total... $3,655.14

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, County of San Mateo.
I, H. W. Schaberg, President, and Alice M. Perry, Assistant Secretary, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of the condition of the San Mateo County Building and Loan Association, as of the close of business on June 30th, 1926.

H. W. SCHABERG, President.
ALICE M. PERRY, Assistant Secretary.

Severally subscribed and sworn to before me by both deponents.

FOR RENT—Apartment 2 Rooms and bath, furnished. 417 Stambaugh street.

Furniture and Fixtures... 774.60
Advances—Ledger Account... 851.01

Total... $989,109.47

Liabilities
Installment Shares—Dues... 461,825.00
Full-paid Invest. Certs... 73,662.51
Principal... 33,582.52
Loans Due and Incomplete... 5,530.78
Due Treasurer—Overdraft... 23,000.00
Due Payable... 54,000.00
Reserve Fund... 3,429.13
Profit and Loss Undivided... 225.01
Sundry Ledger Accounts... 9,321.50
Delinquent Dues and Interest... 9,321.50

Total... $989,109.47

Expenses
Salaries... 132.62
Office Expenses—Full-Paid... 11.25
Term Dividends... 2,901.27
Balance Undivided... $5,655.14

Income
Undivided Balance... $3,429.13
Last Report... 53.51
Interest... 12.50
Certificated... 169.00

Total... $3,655.14

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, County of San Mateo.
I, H. W. Schaberg, President, and Alice M. Perry, Assistant Secretary, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of the condition of the San Mateo County Building and Loan Association, as of the close of business on June 30th, 1926.

H. W. SCHABERG, President.
ALICE M. PERRY, Assistant Secretary.

Severally subscribed and sworn to before me by both deponents.

FOR RENT—Apartment 2 Rooms and bath, furnished. 417 Stambaugh street.

PAINT

All kinds of paint, varnishes, stains, etc.

A WHOLE CARLOAD

Come in and see

Roof and Fence Paint... 85c to $1.25 per gal.
Good House Paint... $1.50 per gal.
Best House Paint... 2.40 per gal.
White Lead... 12c per lb.
Linseed Oil (5 gal. at a time)... $1.10 per gal.
(Bring your own can)

Come and load up—you can save a lot of money

MAGRUDER'S? Sure!

Central Store 397 Broadway, opp. S. P. Station
Main Store is on Vera Ave., West of Highway
REDWOOD CITY, CALIF.

The Bay Is Bridged
at
NEWBRIDGE PARK

NEWBRIDGE PARK invites you to participate in a pre-opening celebration of the new Dumbarton Highway Bridge, the first to cross the San Francisco Bay.

NEW BRIDGE PARK invites you to lunch and take part in the distribution of many valuable prizes, including a radio set, etc.

NEWBRIDGE PARK invites you to view the new Bay Shore Boulevard that intersects Newbridge Park and over which thousands of cars will pass on their way to and from San Joaquin Valley and lower Peninsula points.

SUNDAY, JULY 18th, 1926

Come with us or drive down in your car if you wish.

Take State Highway to Menlo Park, turn east at Ravenswood Ave. to Middlefield Road; to Kingswood Ave. to property. Look for signs all the way.

Luncheon served at 1:30.

We have plenty of cars available for folks who wish to ride with us as our guests. Make reservations today. Telephone Market 1040 now and accommodations for tomorrow will be reserved for you.

On Sunday, July 18th, for the pre-opening you can secure a beautiful building lot for as little as $395, on terms. This price will include macadam street work from curb to curb, Spring Valley water, sewers, curbs, gas mains and cement sidewalks.

A. Dubner & Co.

Exclusive Sales Agents

SIXTH FLOOR GRANT BUILDING (6th Floor) 1095 Market Street
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA

Phones; Market 1040-1041

this 14th day of July, 1926.

(SEAL) RAY GRIFFIN,
Notary Public in and for said County of San Mateo, State of California.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

In the Matter of the Estate of CATHERINE LUCEY, Deceased.
Notice is hereby given by the undersigned Administrator of the estate of Catherine Lucy, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased, to file them, with the necessary vouchers, in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo, or to exhibit the same, with the necessary vouchers, within four (4) months after the first publication of this notice, to the Administrator at the law offices of Jas. T. O'Keefe, No. 71 Broadway, San Francisco, California.

Dated this 14th day of July, A. D. 1926.

EUGENE J. LUCEY,
Administrator of the estate of said deceased.
JAS. T. O'KEEFE, Attorney for Estate.

First publication in Times-Gazette July 17, 1926; July 24; July 31; August 7; and last publication August 14, 1926.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

In the Matter of the Estate of FERDINAND A. SMACK, also known as FRANK A. SMACK, deceased.

MAKES PUMPING TIRES UNNECESSARY
Chicago, Ill.—F. E. Hughes, Suite 553-F 424 N. Homan Ave., of this city has perfected a new air-tight valve cap that enables auto owners to pump up their tires once and never touch them again until punctured or worn out. Leading tire manufacturers, after thorough tests, have approved Mr. Hughes' invention and banished through rubber. One inflation lasts the life of a tire, and tire mileage is doubled. These caps retail for $1.25 for set of five. The inventor wants agents and will send proof and sample free. Write him today.—Adv.

For Good Food
Fox Shoppe
Redwood City

Beautiful Sanitary Floors

It will be a pleasure Mrs. Housewife, to have her home with beautiful floors.

Our method of permanently linoleum over a lining of warm felt gives you a floor that will be smooth, comfortable, quiet and give looking for many years to come.

WE HAVE A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF ARMSTRONGS LINOL
to select from

McNeil Furniture
89 BROADWAY

Your Baby's Picture FREE

ALSO the opportunity to win one of several valuable prizes. This is a Baby Contest sponsored by

Mason's Studio

The following prizes are offered:

First Prize—1 dozen photos worth $17.00
Second Prize—$10 cash.
Third Prize—$3 cash.
Fourth Prize—$2.50 cash.
Fifth Prize—One 7x10 beautiful hand colored photo.

Every Mother Entering A Child Will be Given ONE PHOTO FREE

Enter the contest NOW. The only regulations entry are that the child must be between the age of 3 months to 2 years old. The entrance fee is only $1.00. Don't delay; make your entry early so as to get an immediate appointment for the sitting.

Call at

MASON STUDIOS

653 Broadway
Near Highway
Redwood City

